Mr Floyd Brown
4224 67th Avenue Court West
University Place, Washington 98466

Dear Mr Brown:

I recently received faxes from a website run by you called EXPOSEOBAMA.COM that cause me great concern.

The 139 faxes contain significant personal information about individuals who have apparently given money through the EXPOSEOBAMA.COM website. Personal information on the faxes include: name, address, email address, the user's IP address, credit card type, credit card number, the credit card's 3 digit CSC Code, the credit card expiration date, the amount of the individual's contribution, and the person's employer.

According to the fax header, the faxes are coming from a company in Virginia called C4Strategies at fax number 703-563-3824.

As chairman of the House Energy & Commerce Committee's Oversight & Investigations Subcommittee, I have seen many instances of breaches of personally identifiable information where individuals fall victim of identity theft. I am concerned that if the EXPOSEOBAMA.COM website is sending this critical information to my Congressional office, they may also be sending it to others, thus compromising the identities of the 139 individuals.

I am including a list of the individuals whose information was sent to my office so you can go back and notify them of the information compromise. I am also sending each person a letter notifying them of the apparent breach and including a copy of the fax for their reference.

Sincerely,

BART STUPAK
Member of Congress

[REDACTED] Michigan [REDACTED] 31

Dear Ms [REDACTED]:

My Congressional office recently received the enclosed fax which appears to be from the EXPOSEOBAMA.COM website. This fax includes personally identifiable information from you including some or all of the following information:

Your name
Your mailing address
Your email address
The IP number from your computer
Your full credit card number
Your credit card expiration date
Your credit card's 3 digit CSC Code
Your employer
The amount of the contribution you made to the EXPOSEOBAMA.COM website

I want to make sure you are informed of this apparent breach of your personal information. You may want to check your credit report to ensure that this information has not been sent to anyone who has used it for nefarious purposes such as charges to your credit card or identity theft.

I am also enclosing a copy of the letter I sent to Mr. Floyd Brown who appears to be the editor of the EXPOSEOBAMA.COM website, notifying him of the breach of information.

Sincerely,

BART STUPAK
Member of Congress

RE: Oppose ObamaCare Intimidation Tactics And Sweetheart Deals.

According to some recent news reports, the Obama Administration and the Democratic Leadership of the House and the Senate are both threatening and offering secret back-room sweetheart deals to other members of Congress in a mad and desperate attempt to pass ObamaCare.

The American people are counting on you not to give in to intimidation tactics or the temptation of the secret back-room deals. The American people are counting on you to stand firm and stop ObamaCare once and for all.

This whole struggle to pass ObamaCare (in opposition to the will of the American people) has become a farce and a cruel joke. Stop the secretive back-room deals... stop the legislative chicanery... stop the procedural tricks... stop the third-world intimidation tactics... in short, stop ObamaCare... period.

Sincerely,
